

BURGUNDY VINTAGE OFFER 2016

The weather in 2016 was extreme. The vineyards saw severe frost and endless bouts of mildew, due to a horribly wet and humid Spring. Luckily favourable weather from the end of June through to September ensured wines from the best addresses made excellent wines – but, be warned, quantities are miniscule; the smallest we've seen from many of our domaines in all of Domaine Direct's 37 years of trading.

We happened to be in Burgundy on the now infamous night of April 26th/ 27th when the temperature plummeted overnight. Awakening to a bright sunny morning we were totally unaware of the devastation that had taken place at dawn until we arrived at our first appointment in Chassagne-Montrachet and saw the damage caused by that terrible frost which had combined with a burning morning sun to devastate great swathes of the village's vines.

Chablis had a really tough time with frost, rain, hail, mildew and even sunburnt grapes. Domaine Goisot in Saint Bris bottled virtually nothing and Vincent Dauvissat lost some 80% of his crop. Both, therefore, are not available on this 2016 Offer.

Fortunately July, August and September were good months for the vines and with a lot of work by vigneron on the frost-damaged plots, they managed to produce a small but high quality, clean harvest.

The 2016 whites are generally charming and wonderfully aromatic. Lively and bright, they seem fresher than the 2015s (though at our recent 2015 tasting many of the whites had really tightened up, shedding their early solaire character). The 2016 reds are high-toned with enticing perfumes and fresh fruit character – very Pinot Noir, with less flesh but more verve than 2015. They are pliant, crystalline and pure, with lifted aromatics.

The best whites and reds have an energetic vigour and should offer great pleasure in their relative youth. But it is not a lightweight vintage and the wines have ample structure and depth and will reward patient cellaring.

And a final note on the Beaujolais which has continued its run of brilliant vintages. 2016 is more akin to the terrific 2013 and 2014 than the seductive but turbo-charged 2015s. Here too, however, severe hail greatly reduced the crop at many domaines. The wines have focus and succulent, sappy fruit – a gloriously digestible combination.

"This is one of the most consistent growers in Chablis... It is his enviable cluster of premiers crus where things get really interesting, especially the impressive Montée de Tonnerre and Vaurorent. His four grands crus seem always to deliver, the les Clos showing the authority and completeness that you desire and the Vaudésir articulating the brightness and energy of that vineyard."

"Gilles Lafouge has made outstanding wines in 2016... everything was showing beautifully and one can clearly see that this is a very, very fine vintage for Domaine Lafouge. The 2016 red wines from Auxey-Duresses from the domaine are quite black fruity in personality and show lovely structure for medium to long-term aging, with classic balances and plenty of aromatic complexity already in evidence... Gilles Lafouge is at the top of his game today and this is now one of the most consistently satisfying stops on my Burgundy tour each trip."

“Dominique Lafon is one of the most renowned winemakers not just in Meursault but arguably in Burgundy. Of course, his winemaking extends beyond the boundaries of the Côte de Beaune, and he was one of the first to exploit the Mâconnais, whereas I suspect many others still pay little attention... Trust me, whenever I meet Dominique it is clear that he is just as passionate and as serious about his range from the Mâconnais as his Montrachet.”

“Although the 2016s faced a more challenging growing season than the previous year, Thivin’s wines performed extremely well, demonstrating freshness and satisfying fruit, not just with respect to the reds but also a wonderful Beaujolais Rosé that is one of the finest I have tasted from the region. I have bleated on about the brilliance of Thivin’s Côte de Brouilly, in my mind one of the finest offerings from Beaujolais, an exemplary expression of Gamay from one of its most propitious terroirs. In summary, it is onwards and upwards from Château Thivin.”
